

The declaration of the ideology suppression of human life, the ideology suppression of relations between nations in the global world on the threshold of the third millennium

On the threshold of the new millennium, we should not only evaluate the status quo because we name our successes or more or less successfully hide our failures, but mostly we have to talk about our future, about the state of our countries, the state of the planet Earth, in which state we will leave it to our children.

Using computer communications and air transportation technology, the world has reached such a level of globalization that even politicians have already admitted moving away from the current political rhetoric about dividing the political scene on the right wing and the left wing and reluctantly begin to hear the pluralistic political order of the seizure of the power, the gratification of power ambitions, and in the better cases, the service to a citizen and public affairs.

The determining magnitude of the third millennium is the global economy. However, the economic growth itself cannot feed men, it can only improve the living foundation on which they build their emotional richness.

Dear friends!

Representatives of eight countries gathered here, among other things, to lay the foundation stone of the restored bridge between two continents, between historical partners in cultural and social field, as well as in significantly business, between friends, on the one hand the countries of Latin America, and on the other hand the countries of Central and Eastern Europe, and to become godparents of the Declaration of the ideology suppression of human life, the ideology suppression of relations between nations.

Let us resist the provincialism, which leads to an isolation. Although the greatness of kings and saints is decisive for the manifestations of national pride, but only traditions do not increase our living standards, nor entirely satisfy our souls!

Let us place emphasis on the cosmopolitanism while preserving national traditions. Only thus we can keep hope for a happy and fulfilling life in the coming millennium and follow in timeless vision of the first Czechoslovak President, Tomáš Garrigue Masaryk.

And now please lords
Hector Noriega Valencia,
Excellency David Paulovich,
Vlastislav Beneš,
Denis Gruščenko,
Excellency Sergej Uspič,
Excellency Martin Tomov
and Ivan Koláčný, and for the Czech side the most competent person, Mr. Jaromír Šlápota, to come and make a ceremonial tapping on the foundation stone „The world of future - the world without borders“.

In Brno, January 14, 2000

ORBIS TARRARUM PRO FUTURIS – ORBIS SINE FINIBUS
BRNO, PRIDIE IDIBUS MARTIIS MM

The ceremonial evening in Brno was opened by the exhibition of the works of Mexican painter Santos Balmori, a personal friend of Pablo Picasso. The artist's relationship to the Czech Republic was very personal, at the time of the Prague Spring in 1968, he defended his art practice in a stormy debate in the National Gallery in Prague. His second wife Helena Jordán worked as a choreographer of the Mexican ballet Decadence love, which dealt with the events of 60s in Czechoslovakia (Prague Spring).

The introductory word was given to the host, Mr. Ivo Vaněk, after which the Secretary of the Mexican Embassy in Prague, Mr. Hector Noriega, a longtime friend of the artist, the Honorary Consul of Ecuador, Mr. Vlastislav Beneš made a speech.

Right photo: The exhibition attracted many celebrities. In the background, there is standing Professor Ignác Hoza, the Rector of the Military University of Ground Forces, the later Rector of Tomas Bata University in Zlín, behind him there is Professor Vorlíček, Dean of the Medical Faculty of Masaryk University in Brno, the Czech leading oncologist and longtime Chairman of the Czech Oncological Society of Jan Evangelista Purkyně.

Exhibition visitors did not enrich themselves only in their artistic impressions, but also pleased their taste buds with Mexican culinary specialties.

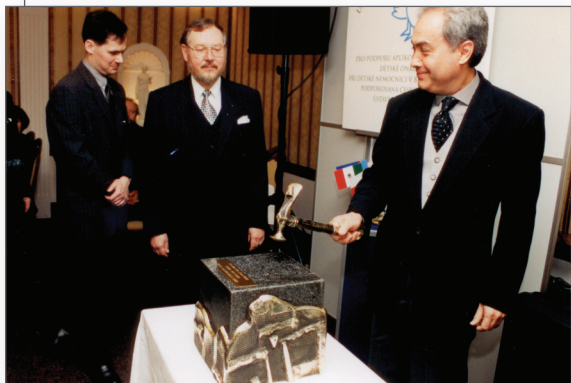

In the second part of the evening, guests were witnessing the ceremonial tapping on the foundation stone „The world of the future - the world without borders“, the bridge between the peoples of Central and Eastern Europe and Latin America, and the presentation of The declaration of the ideology suppression of human life, the ideology suppression of relations between nations in the global world on the threshold of the third millennium.
